Susan Green Miller has been practicing in the areas of residential and commercial real estate since 1993. Although involved in all aspects of a real estate practice, Miller concentrates heavily in both closing high end residential transactions as well as investor transactions, and handles the preparation, negotiation and review of both commercial and residential real estate contracts, lease agreements and construction agreements. Actively representing buyers, sellers, private lenders and traditional corporate and banking institutions, Miller's attention to detail and extensive knowledge and understanding of even the most complicated titles, and uncanny ability to find a way to make the deal work sets her apart from her competition. Miller has returned to her alma mater to teach ethics to incoming law students.
