Timothy Revis has been a vital member of the support staff since 2012. In addition to maintaining the firm's calendar, and performing basic paralegal support to the litigation team, Revis uses his extensive training in historic preservation to design, implement and manage the firm's litigation databases and document management systems. Revis' years working at the firm have provided him an in depth understanding of the litigation life cycle and his managerial and consultative support provides solutions and project management strategies that manage cases efficiently and effectively saving both time and money for the attorney and client.
